Quote from the Information Technology Management Association

On the Guides to Securing Personal Data in Electronic Medium and the Guide to Managing Data Breaches

“ITMA believes that these comprehensive guides will be beneficial to organisations handling personal data. They will help increase the awareness of business and IT executives on the risks of security and data breaches, as well as the measures organizations can take to reduce these risks. It is appropriate that PDPC positions them as “guidelines” instead of “mandatory requirements” as the extent of measures required will depend on the risks faced by each organization.” – Mr Alan Goh, Council Member of the Information Technology Management Association
